A minister entered his horse for the races at the Oheka county fair, New York, and not only entered it, but drove. When one of the other drivers ran his horse and passed him on the backstretch, the parson went into the judges' stand and made as grand a "kick" as any old driver. Another man who drove in one of the other races was a Methodist, and when the other drivers tried to crowd him to the fence he made their spokes rattle, and one of them got his wheel "dished."

ARCTIC NEWS.
Good Catches—A Volcanic Eruption.
The steam schooner Dolphin arrived at Victoria, B. C., August 29th, from Behring's Sea, bringing over 2,000 seal-skins. The season had been very favorable, the weather being clear and calm, with much less fog than usually prevails in those northern latitudes. The schooner Alfred Adams brought 2,000 skins. She reported a submarine volcanic eruption in Behring's Sea on the 7th of August, when the deck was covered with ashes for several hours. She had spoken the schooners Silva Hardy, Teresa, Adele and Black Diamond, between the 6th and 23rd July. On July 29th the steamer Orca was spoken and reported her catch to be five whales in five days. August 3rd the whaling bark Ida T. Harriman was spoken, all well, with one sperm and two right whales.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.
A report of the select committee on the brewery license bill was presented by Mr. Dole, submitting a substitute bill, but it was tabled to await the Hawaiian version. The currency bill was next taken up, and after some discussion referred to a select committee, consisting of Messrs. Bishop, Creighton, Castle, Dole and Aholo. Consideration of the electric light bills was opened by a motion of Mr. Brown for indefinite postponement. His reasons were that there was a contract in existence for lighting the city, and that the electric light being in its infancy it would be unwise to adopt it now, especially at an expense much greater than the cost of the present light. His motion was defeated, and a motion by Mr. K. Unamano carried, to consider Mr. Berger's bill section by section. After an animated discussion, further consideration was postponed until the Minister of the Interior submits information to the house relative to the alleged existing contract, and he was given till Monday next for that purpose. The bill in amendment of the gambling act was passed on second reading, after a warm discussion, resulting in several amendments to the bill. This completed the hundred and fourth day's business.

Yachting Hospitality.
Captain Phelps, of the American yacht "Brunhilde," assisted by Mr. Hillard, entertained a party of ladies and gentlemen on board yesterday afternoon. The party consisted of His Excellency G. W. Merrill, U. S. Minister Resident, and Mrs. Merrill; Col. Chas. T. Gulick and Mrs. Gulick; Mr. R. W. Laine, Consul for Mexico, and Mrs. Laine; Mr. J. O. Carter, Mrs. and the Misses Carter; the Misses Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Jones, Messrs. J. Brewer, Morse, Hastings and others. All were loud in their praise of the cleanliness and beauty of the yacht. The ladies were delighted with the cosy rooms, the clean and well-appointed pantry and kitchen; while the gentlemen compared notes on the build and rig of the vessel, summing up their conclusions with, "He's a jolly good fellow, knows how to enjoy life; and hope he may live long to enjoy it." A bountiful lunch was provided, of which all partook, with a cup of choice tea. At about five o'clock the guests took leave of their kind hosts, wishing them, "Aloha nui!"

Police Court.
Thos. Muldoon, having taken too much liquor for the good of his "solid" manhood, did not come back for his deposit of $6, which accordingly became forfeit to the Crown. Milimili acknowledged the corn and became debtor in the same amount. Pa and More were not more apparently than really guilty of affray, and their combat netted the treasury $12. Peaha went into servitude 48 hours for disorderly conduct. Three Chinamen were given an extension of time to defend themselves against a charge of assault and battery. The five Chinese corraled with opium at Cape Horn were granted a similar privilege, and a sixth was dropped by the prosecution.

Litigation.
On the civil side of the Police Court, Thursday, an action of trover begun on February 15th last by Dr. John Brodie against Jas. Holt, Jr., was decided for the plaintiff, judgment being given for $68.05 inclusive of costs. A. C. Smith for the plaintiff; Kinney & Peterson for the defendant. The latter noted an appeal to the Intermediary Court. Nakea confessed judgment, in assumption action by Kekane, for $18, costs making the total $55.80. Several cases were discontinued and continued.

"What would you do if you were I and I were you?" tenderly inquired a young swell of his lady friend, as he escorted her home from church. "Well," said she, "if I were you I would throw away that vile cigarette, cut up my cane for firewood, wear my watch chain under my coat, and stay at home at nights and pray for brains."

An explosion occurred in the Fair-lawn colliery, Scranton, Pa., August 30, which resulted in the death of five or six men and the injury of others.

FOREIGN NEWS.
A Terrible Earthquake!
Charleston, S. C., in Ruins—Damage Ten Million Dollars—Great Loss of Life.
A series of earthquake shocks has passed over the city of Charleston, South Carolina, extending from Friday night, August 27th, at one o'clock, till Thursday, September 2nd, the last date to hand. The most severe shocks were during the night of Tuesday, August 31st, and they almost wholly demolished the city.

HOW THE SHOCK OCCURRED.
An account written on the spot says: No event has caused so much consternation and gloom as was created by the thirty seconds of disaster on Tuesday night. The first intimation of approaching danger was given in the atmosphere. It was dense, sultry, and fearfully oppressive, and as the night drew on the atmosphere became damp and difficult to breathe. Suddenly the city was aroused by a low, warning rumble like distant thunder. The sky was not clear, but there was no indication of storm and no apparent occasion for thunder. Few persons understood what the ominous sound portended, but the feeling that it was an omen of some overwhelming disaster was general. There was little time to prepare for what was coming. The growl of the elements had scarcely died away when the earth trembled violently. A momentary pause ensued and then the city rose and fell as if on the crest of a billow. The sound which accompanied the wave was terrible. It was a frightful, half-smothered roar. It seemed as if only the merest crust of earth, and that in imminent danger of giving way, separated the city from pandemonium.

THE CULMINATION.
People rushed from their houses into the street only to witness the culmination of the horrible work. Telegraph poles lay prostrate on the ground or leaned on the frail support of wrecked buildings, while their labyrinth of wires so obstructed the streets as to make travel through them almost impossible. Almost every building in Meeting and Broad streets, the two principal thoroughfares of the city, were wrecked to a greater or less extent. Many people escaped from their tumbling homes only to meet death or fearful injury from falling bricks and mortar, whole masses of which plunged down into the streets, adding to the general havoc.

SOME OF THE EFFECTS.
The most serious damage was done to those parts of the city devoted to business, and to costly dwellings. St. Michael's Church, whose famous spire serves as an important landmark for ships entering Charleston harbor, the same spire which was saved from destruction by fire many years ago, by the courageous action of a negro slave, was irreparably wrecked. The City Hall, Hibernia Hall, St. Philip's Church, the main station house, and dwellings by the score, were reduced to ruins. Hundreds of people were made homeless in a single moment, and the loss of life was far greater than that caused by the cyclone a year ago. The latest accounts estimate sixty people as having been killed. Most of those killed were negroes, whose abject and hopeless terror is past description. They thought the end of the world had come, and huddling together made no effort to extricate their buried friends, but sang hymns and offered supplication all night long. No less than five fires broke out in different parts of the city, but the brigade was so well divided that, notwithstanding the encumbered streets, it prevented the destruction of the city by fire.

AFTERCLAPS.
Several minor shocks, were felt during the night, supplementing the effects of the first great assault and adding to the consternation of the people. The second heavy wave swept along at precisely 8:25 on Wednesday morning. It came from south-east just as its more awful predecessor had done, and passed away toward the north-west. The people had ventured back to their dwellings to obtain some food, being wearied and hungry after spending the night trying to rescue the dead and wounded from the ruins. Again they heard the dull rumble beneath them, and felt the sickening tremor of the earth. They poured into the streets to seek open places. The earth quivered and heaved under their feet, and then the motion and sound died away, but not before many other buildings had been shaken to the ground. On Thursday the great majority of houses were uninhabitable, scarcely a hundred buildings in the city being used at all. The people camped out in open places, men, women and children together. At 11:30 p. m., 1st inst., the latest despatch came, saying: Another shock has just occurred, rather more severe than any since last night, knocking down several houses.

VARIOUS DETAILS.
The gasworks were badly injured, leaving the city with insufficient light. An investigation on the 2nd showed that scarcely a house in Charleston had entirely escaped injury. Only one telephone wire was left connected with the outside world, and it was crowded with private messages. But one drug store remained opened, the solitary active business place in the city, and all its clerks were kept busy preparing medicines for the suffering. Many dead people were lying unburied, principally poor negroes. There were not half a dozen tents in the city, and women and children were experiencing great privations in consequence. It was calculated that at least three-fourths of the city would have to be rebuilt entirely if the houses were to be inhabited. All the railroad approaches to the city were wrecked, and it was feared that want of provisions would add to the general woe before the roads were again open. No trains had arrived or departed in twenty-four hours. There was very little shipping in port and none of it was injured. The loss to property would probably amount to eight or ten million dollars.

SHOCKS ELSEWHERE.
A passenger train from Columbia to Charleston was thrown from the track, the engineer and fireman being killed, by the first shock near Summerville, Ga., which town was nearly destroyed. Columbia, S. C., was visited by a terrible earthquake at 9:48 on the night of August 31st. The first two shocks were fearful. Buildings swayed from side to side, and the earth rose and fell like the waves of the ocean. Eleven shocks were felt up to 10:20 next morning. The shock at Langley, S. C., burst the milldams, and some thousand feet of railroad track were destroyed. Shocks were felt with more or less severity at Ravenell, S. C., Augusta, Ga., and Jacksonville, Fla. Where they were heavy the negroes were seized with the belief that the end of the world had come. Their church bells were tolled and thousands of the people congregated, remaining in prayer all night.

UNITED STATES.
Pacific Coast.
Placerville has the electric light.
Wong Tie, a noted Chinese desperado, has been arrested near Tucson, Arizona. He has the reputation of having killed men by the dozen.

It has been learned in San Francisco that the Chinese in Hongkong have been supplied with a large consignment of maps of San Francisco, with a description of the principal features of city written in Chinese. These and pamphlets are studied en route by those who are to be landed by the habeas corpus dredge. It is in this manner that they learn to answer in court part of the questions about that city correctly.

A general strike on the San Francisco water front was expected to be ordered. It would involve the seven unions alone, in which there are 7,000 men. In other cities on the Coast the men belonging to the unions affiliated with the Coast Seamen's Union in San Francisco are more anxious to strike than the men in that city. The longshore lumbermen at Eureka had struck, and a similar movement at Tacoma was daily expected.

Surrender of the Apache Chief.
Goronimo, the old Apache chief, with fourteen of his followers, entered Captain Lawton's camp, threw down their arms and asked permission to surrender. Captain Lawton insisted on an unconditional surrender, which was submitted to and the whole band surrendered. General Miles waived any share in the glory of the capture, and directed Captain Lawton to proceed direct to Fort Bowie, report to the Adjutant-General, and receive all the praise due him for his meritorious services. The command was approaching Fort Bowie with the hostiles as prisoners, and orders had been given to shoot any of them attempting to escape. Captain Lawton was worn out with his long and arduous campaign and was almost a skeleton.

Miscellaneous.
Yellow fever has appeared at Biloxi, near New Orleans.

The public debt was reduced a million and a quarter in August.
Five tramps are now believed to be the perpetrators of the Rock Island train robbery last March, when Messenger Nichols was killed and $21,000 stolen from the express car.

EUROPE.
The Irish Question.

Mr. Gladstone has written a pamphlet on Home Rule, in which the policy is clearly indicated of separating the land purchasing scheme entirely from that object. It is said that if he had spoken earlier, his party would not have been divided nor the elections lost. The pamphlet is likely to unite the main sections of the party. Mr. Goldwin Smith has written an able but bitter reply to the pamphlet. The home rule debate on the address was still going on at last date.

The Bulgarian Crisis.
Prince Alexander of Roumania returned to Bulgaria, September 1st. Philippopolis was gaily decorated and crowded with visitors who came to join the citizens in celebrating the event. An enthusiastic popular demonstration was held in front of the British consulate in honor of Alexander, and a counter-demonstration in favor of the revolutionists was at the same time held in front of the Russian consulate. The Prince addressed a submissive telegram to the Czar, assuring the latter of his firm intention to make every sacrifice to forward his majesty's "magnanimous intention to extricate Bulgaria from the grave crisis through which she is passing." He should be happy to give his majesty decided proofs of his unalterable devotion to his august person. The Czar replied, saying he could not approve of the Prince's return to Bulgaria, "foreseeing from it sinister consequences for the country already so severely tried." The Czar concludes: "I shall abstain, so long as your highness remains in Bulgaria, from any intervention. In the sad condition to which the country is reduced your highness must decide your own course. I reserve to myself to judge what my father's venerated memory, the interests of Russia and the peace of the East require of me."

A Paris despatch of the first says: The publication of the correspondence between the Czar and Prince Alexander has created a great sensation in political circles here. The Czar's menacing reply to the Prince's submissive epistle is regarded by diplomats as insuring Alexander's abdication and Russia's occupation of Bulgaria. It is feared that war will ensue, unless Bismarck intercedes.

Sporting.
The three-mile race between Hanlan and Courtney took place at Jamaica Bay, N. Y., September 1, resulting in a decisive victory for Hanlan, who distanced his opponent by seven lengths.

William Beach, of Australia, beat John Teemer, of the United States, by six lengths, in the deciding heat of the international sculling sweepstakes, on the 1st. The race was from Putney to Mortlake, at Hammersmith Bridge. At Detroit, on the 1st, the Detroit baseball club beat the New York club by 12 to 5.
